ASSEMBLY BODY O.K.'S PLAN TO ABOLISH GUARD

Favorable Report on Bill to Do Away With Wisconsin Militia Ordered by Committee

WOMAN OFFERS ONLY DEFENSE OF GUARD AT THE HEARING

Asks Continuance as Protection to Life and Property in State

MADISON, Wis.—Abolition of the Wisconsin National Guard is called for in a favorable report of the assembly state affairs committee brought into the lower house of the legislature Friday.

With Assemblyman W. A. Prescott, Milwaukee, dissenting, the Pelakowski bill, sponsored by socialists, was backed by eight administration and socialist members of the committee and sent to the floor for passage. This measure completely does away with the trained militia.

While the committee action is declared by socialists to reflect the attitude of the assembly toward the state national guard state senators when they learned of the state affairs committee report asserted that they would be able in their house to kill any attempt to do away with Wisconsin's armed force. They expressed the opinion that compromise would be worked out, cutting the appropriation of the adjutant general, but leaving the guard intact.

Delay Is Refused

There was little support for the state's military force at the afternoon hearing. Due to the recent death of Adjutant General Orlando Bolivar, that department reported that it was unable to offer a prepared defense and asked for a continuance of the hearing. This was refused by the committee.

There followed an extended hearing in which staff officials joined with women's organizations and the state federation of labor in urging adoption of the bill. The national guard was characterized by all as an adjunct to militarism which they believed still formidable in this country.

Comings Attacks Training

Montenat Governor George F. Comings made the principal attack on the state guard. He reiterated his belief, expressed at a previous hearing that military training was demoralizing to young men and a center of militarism in the nation. The adjutant general said that the state was spending $1,000,000 annually for military training that the people of the state would not sanction.

A number of women speakers favored abolition.

Woman to Defense of Guard

Mrs. E. H. Van Osstrand representing the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Service Star Legion, offered the only defense of the guard. She asked that it be continued as a protection to life and property in the state.

"As citizens we wish to stand staunchly behind the guard," she said.

Labor Backs Measure

The Wisconsin Federation of Labor at its legislative conference here Friday appointed a committee of three to wait upon Governor Blaine, instructed to urge him to sign the bill calling for abolition of the Wisconsin National guard should that measure pass the legislature.

Approval was given the proposal to abolish the guard, and the federation representatives instructed to support bills for that purpose. The committee to wait on Governor Blaine is made up of Frank W. Metcalf, Milwaukee; W. H. Sommers, Racine, and W. A. Smith, Elroy.

AGED WIDOW RESIDING ALONE FOUND BURNED TO DEATH IN HOME AT RICHLAND CENTER

RICHLAND CENTER, Wis.—Mrs. Clara Dillon, 73-year-old widow, was found burned to death Wednesday in her home at Fox Hollow, seven miles from here.

Silas Montgomery, brother of the dead woman, and who farms the land on which she lived, found the charred body when he discovered smoke emerging from the house. The body was lying beside the kitchen stove, stripped of clothing by the blaze.

Montgomery was in the habit of paying many daily visits to his sister's home to inquire as to her well-being, and paid her the first of his calls at 7:30 a. m. Wednesday. He found Mrs. Dillon all right, and left to go about his work, not to return until he saw the smoke.

Montgomery's theory is that Mrs. Dillon was stricken by a heart attack while placing wood in the stove, and fell forward on to the blaze.

Mrs. Dillon lived alone, but has been under the care of Montgomery for some time, although her brother lived in a separate home on the same farm.

Wednesday's storm and the consequent unpassable condition of the roads, kept persons of Richland Center uninformed of the tragedy until today.

DEBT FUNDING BILL EXPECTED TO PASS IN SENATE FRIDAY

Agreement to Limit Debate Will Bring Vote Before Adjournment Tonight

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The senate resumed discussion of the British debt funding bill Friday under an agreement to limit debate after 2 o'clock and vote before adjournment, even though a night session should be required. Leaders expected a vote before night, since passage of the measure had been conceded by opponents and the discussion was described yesterday as nearly exhausted.

The agreement confines each senator speaking after 2 o'clock to ten minutes and provides at the insistence of Senator La Follette, republican, Wisconsin, that the chair shall not keep a list of members to recognize for addresses. The arrangement was offered late yesterday by Senator Robinson, democrat, Arkansas, after earlier efforts to bring about a unanimous consent agreement for a vote had been blocked by Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, a vigorous opponent of the measure.

"DRY LAW" LIQUOR IS DESTROYED HERE BY FEDERAL AGENT

A federal prohibition enforcement commissioner, detailed to inspect drug stores in La Crosse and check up on the liquor stocks on hand, destroyed a case of "prohibition whiskey" several days ago. The original container was found to have been tampered with. About half of the liquor in the plant bottles had been drawn off and other liquid substituted. A brown sediment appeared in the bottom of the bottles, just enough to make the contents cloudy. The liquor was poured into the wash sink at the prescription counter in the drug store in which it was found. No blame is attached to the proprietor of the drug store, according to the federal agent. The liquor, he said, had been tampered with before it reached the store here.

BUDGET BUREAU ASKS APPROPRIATION FOR REFUNDING OF TAXES

WASHINGTON.—An additional appropriation of $78,655,000 to cover repayments on taxes illegally collected was asked of congress Friday by the budget bureau. The item includes $54,000,000 which it is estimated will be required to meet tax refunded requirements between July 1 and December 31.

While only approximately $25,000,000 is to be used in the tax refunds between now and June 30, the treasury deficit of $92,000,000 for the current fiscal year, is thereby increased to $117,000,000. General Lord, the budget director, called attention however, to the increasing receipts in back tax collections and reiterated that the president's hope of balancing the budget this year still appeared likely to be fulfilled.

KING TUT'S COFFIN REVEALED AS INNER CHAMBER IS OPENED

Sarcophagus of Pharaoh Who Ruled in 1350 B. C. Found by British Archaeologists

LOOK FOR TILT OVER DISPOSAL OF TREASURE FOUND IN TOMB

Egypt Lays Claim to Riches Valued at 15 Million

LUXOR, Egypt.—The sarcophagus of the Pharaoh Tutankhamun was found when the inner chamber of his tomb was opened by archaeologists this afternoon.

Many articles of furniture also were in the mortuary chamber. A large crowd of visitors and newspaper men had assembled early in the morning in anticipation of the unveiling. Before the work was started, impressions of the souls on the masonry were taken by the eminent Egyptologists James H. Breasted and Allan Gardiner.

"King Tut" Mystery Man

King Tutankhamun was an Egyptian king of the eighteenth dynasty. He reigned about 1350 B. C., or 3270 years ago.

His origin is doubtful. He gained the throne by marrying Princess Ankhes-Pa-Aton, most beautiful woman in Egypt and daughter of King Amen-Hotep IV.

The mystery of Tutankhamun's life is this: He destroyed the beautiful city of El Amarna and ordered his subjects to leave it and settle in Thebes.

El Amarna had been constructed as a perfect city of contentment by Akhnaton, an earlier king. Akhnaton barred priests and founded a new religion of his own.

Tutankhamun restored the old faith.

Dispute Over Ownership

LUXOR, Egypt.—An international tilt which probably will involve at least three powers is expected to take place before any decision can be reached as to the disposition of the $15,000,000 in ancient treasure just brought to light through the opening of the tomb of King Tutankhamun here.

Before excavation was started several months ago, Lord Carnarvon, an eminent British archaeologist, secured a concession from the newly established Egyptian government.

Carnarvon, it contained a royal mummy and which had not previously been entered by robbers should remain the property of the Egyptian government.

Then Carnarvon and Howard Carter, an American who has spent 33 years in Egyptian research, unearthed the vast treasure, buried more than 3000 years in the midst of poverty and squalor.

Egypt Claims It

This treasure, buried in the tomb of Tutankhamun, comes under that classification and the Egyptian government already has laid claim to it.

But pressure may be brought to bear by the British government to cause Egyptian officials to modify their stand. In that case, some of Tutankhamun's treasures may find their way into American museums.

America's claim is based on the contention that the treasures of ancient Egypt belong to the world and that America, as one of the leading nations of the present world, is entitled to share in them.

What Treasures Are

Some of the treasures over which the dispute is waged are:

Three gilt life-size images of human beings.

Gilded heads of animals with eyes of jewels.

Carved couches inlaid with ivory and semi-precious stones.

Chests of ebony and ivory with gilt inscriptions, containing Tutankhamun's funerary.

Tutankhamun's state throne, encrusted with jewels.

A heavy chair thickly set with turquoise, cornelian lapis and other stones.

Two life-sized statues of the king with gold work.

Four chariots encrusted with semi-precious stones.

Exquisite boxes and alabaster vases.

Richly embroidered clothing of the king and queen.

The find could be sold for more than a dozen millions on the basis of its actual value alone but its scientific and archaeological worth makes it absolutely priceless.

STRONG MEDICINE PROVES TOO STRONG FOR THIS CHINAMAN

LOS ANGELES.—The death in the psychopathic ward of the Los Angeles county hospital of Joseph Liu, a Chinese missionary student at the Bible Institute here, was attributed by physicians to two doses of Wan-Yu-Yoh, a Chinese compound, said to comprise sixty ingredients including pulverized tiger teeth, drops of tiger blood, saw dust, elephant hoofs, bear claws, bird feathers and various vegetables. Liu became a Christian and was educated for the missionary field.

In a lucid period, Liu admitted he had thrown away the American medicine and sought relief in Wan-Yu-Yoh, which the Chinese are said to believe has supernatural power to heal.

TENSION INCREASES IN ESSEN WITH WOUNDING OF 2 FRENCH SOLDIERS BY GERMAN POLICE

60 TRAVELERS ARE HELD IN VIROQUA 2 DAYS BY STORM

Hugo J. Ackerman, Court Reporter, Describes Experiences of Party at Blizzard's Mercy

SLEEP TUESDAY NIGHT IN MILWAUKEE TRAIN AT STATION

Radio Concert Breaks Monotony for Wayfarers at Hotel

SNOWBOUND in Viroqua two and a half days, a party of 60, mostly all traveling salesmen but including several La Crosse men, arrived in this city about 6:30 o'clock Thursday night. They had spent the most harrowing 60 hours they had experienced in many a day. No one suffered any particular hardship, except one man who froze his nose, but the fact that they were all "cooped up" in the small town of Viroqua, unable to get anywhere, was a real, honest-to-goodness goat-getter.

Hugo J. Ackerman, court reporter, and Paul Pamperin, cigar salesman, were two La Crosse persons in the snowbound party.

"I left La Crosse on Monday night for Sparta," said Mr. Ackerman, "figuring that I could get the branch line train from there to Viroqua Tuesday morning, and would get there at 9:10 a. m., quite a little while before the Southeastern train that leaves La Crosse Tuesday morning. The Milwaukee main line train was an hour late and we didn't reach Viroqua until 10:10 a. m. Of course, the Southeastern was on time and beat us in by a wide margin. They had to delay the opening of court until I arrived."

Train Arrives at Midnight

"Court adjourned at 5 p. m. The town was full of traveling men. They had got as far as Viroqua but couldn't get any further. The train that was to have gone back to Sparta Tuesday night was frozen at the Westby station. We got word that another engine was coming from Sparta, but they didn't know how long it would take them to come the seven miles. Everybody stuck around the station until about 10 p. m. Then the parade started back to the hotel and we all went to bed. The clerk was instructed to call us if the train got in. I had just got my coat and collar off when we were called.

"The mob" staged a rush to the station. The station was packed with prospective passengers for La Crosse. An hour and a half later, at 12:30 a. m., the train arrived. Nobody could talk to the train crew. Good, they were mean—the weather you know. However, they told us they would start for Sparta in 30 minutes. At 3 a. m. the train had started. So a crowd of us piled into a coach and went to sleep in the seats. Seemed as though I had just gotten to sleep when I was brought back to earth with a bang. We heard a whistle screaming.

Thought They Were in Fargo

"Some said we were in Westby; others said we were approaching La Crosse. Two swore by the gods of war that we were pulling into Fargo, N. D. Close scrutiny of our surroundings convinced us finally that we hadn't left Viroqua and the whistle was the raucous, saucy whistle of a Southeastern train that had managed to pull in from Westby.

"Well, we all hiked back to the hotel, had breakfast and then made another sprint for the station. It was now 8:30 a. m., Wednesday, understand. The Southeastern people told us to get on and take a ride, that they were going to La Crosse. Most of the fellows thought that was about the funniest remark they had heard in 24 hours. Four of us, including myself, thought we would take a chance. Columbus did and landed in America, so we figured we might make La Crosse. The Southeastern started out bravely enough and sailed along in fine style for—well, for just a mile. Then it struck a snowdrift.

"The four of us got out and started to walk back to Viroqua. Mr. Joe Dewey of Milwaukee, froze his nose before he had got more than two or three train lengths away. We had to stop and render first aid. The other two were Mr. Nash of Eau Claire, and Mr. Johnson of Westby. The other three fellows were big, heavy fellows. They broke through the snow and had hard work ploughing through the drifts that varied in depth from one to three feet. I was the lightest of the four and could walk on the top of the snowdrifts.

Joshed by Those Who Stayed Behind

"When we entered the Hotel Fortney, the rest of the crowd surely did guff the lives out of us. 'Thought you'd steal away on us, eh?' they inquired. 'See what happened to you; now you will stay here with us until spring, gentle spring, comes and releases us from our prison.'

"Wednesday night everybody enjoyed the radio concert. We heard

Conference Hits Obstacle

LONDON.—The hesitancy of the British government to permit the French to operate main line trains through Cologne, which would virtually sanction the Ruhr occupation, is believed here to constitute a stumbling block in the conversations between the French mission and the British cabinet ministers.

LEGISLATORS HAD DIFFICULT TIME IN THE OLD DAYS

Rode to State Capitol of New State in Prairie Schooner or on Horseback

FIRST LEGISLATORS HAD TASK OF FRAMING THE CONSTITUTION

Belmont, La Fayette County,
Scene of First Legislature

MADISON, Wis.—In the state house at Madison Wisconsin's legislators are meeting to make laws and pass regulations for the state government for another two years. In October of 1838, a group of men met for the same purpose in a small half-finished building which was the state capital of the newly formed state.

Instead of coming to the capital seated in a luxurious Pullman, the legislator of 1838 crossed the prairie in a lumbering wagon, or packed his saddle bag and rode horseback to the little village which was to be the capital of the state. On the shores of Lake Monona, the senator from across the state found the settlement which was to grow into the present city of Madison.

If he had friends in the town, he could escape the necessity of living at one of the crude boarding houses or hotels of the place. If he was unlucky enough to have no private home opened to him, he must be content with such conveniences as a public lodging house might offer. The American House, on the corner of Pinckney and Washington streets, where the first National bank now stands, was the best hotel of that time. In its lobby many a good cigar was smoked and in its bar many a senatorial foot was rested on the rail while public spirited representatives determined the best means of putting across a favored deal.

Made Constitution
The legislator of 1923 may think the task of representing the people a tedious one at times but the men who in 1838 met in Madison to begin the building of a new state from the wilderness had a far more laborious work ahead of them. To them fell the responsibility of making the constitution of the state, of fixing the boundaries of counties and dividing them into townships, of locating county seats, of mapping out roads, of granting charters to railroads that were never built, and of passing the statute laws of the state.

The territory of Wisconsin was formed when the territory of Michigan was divided. In October of 1836 men from the settled districts of this region met together to make plans for the organization of the state. Population at that time centered about the lead mines in the southwestern part of the state. French Canadians had made settlements around Green Bay and Prairie du Chien, and for two or three years eastern people had been coming to the shores of Lake Michigan and the southeastern part of the state.

years used as a barn on a farm near Belmont, now a hamlet of 500 people. The state has recently purchased this old building and has restored it, as nearly as possible, to its early condition.

The first legislature consisted of thirteen members of the upper house, and twenty-six in the lower house. The first work of the legislature was to choose the permanent capital of the state. James D. Doty, a young man who was then a United States judge for this region, came to the legislature with the site of the capital in his pocket. He had purchased the land between the two northernmost of the four lakes, and proposed to have that place, then uninhabited, made the capital of the state. By a judicious distribution of corner lots he secured the vote and the site which he had selected was chosen. The place was named Madison in honor of President Madison, whom Doty strongly admired.

A curious thing happened in the selection of the capital. Several other locations were proposed, but when any of them was to be voted upon, the secretary's count showed six for, and seven against it. When Doty's choice came up for consideration, there were seven votes for it and six against it.

Build Capitol
After this momentous matter was settled the question was to begin work on the capitol. A contract was let for the construction of the legislative building for which Congress had made a small appropriation. In order to bring teams and workmen to the site the contractor had first to cut a road from Milwaukee to the four lakes. He also had to induce a family from Blue Mounds to move in and start a boarding house for him. Thus the first dwelling in Madison was a boarding house.

Work on the capitol progressed rather slowly, and when the legislature met in the fall of 1838, this time instead of a territory, the building was in rather poor shape. It had been built of stone quarried at Maple Bluff and carried across the lake in scows. The first story was up and the square and assembly rooms had been boarded up with green oak cut from the woods near by. Not having had time to be properly seasoned, the boards soon began to shrink and when a fire was started in the old fashioned iron stove, they shrank so much that great cracks appeared in the walls and in the floor.

This was before Emerson wrote his "Compensation," but the senators of those days were satisfactorily demonstrated that there is a compensating feature to every ill. When arguments became too heated, it was a simple matter to reach a case through a nearby crack and punch the puss, which found shelter beneath the building, into squealing activity. By the time the commotion had subsided the senators might find another speaker claiming the floor.

The winter which came on soon after the legislature convened was an unusually cold one, and despite a roaring fire, sap exuded from the boards and froze on the walls. It was hard to be patriotic and public spirited enough to continue making laws while sitting with one's feet over a crack in the floor with sappy icicles hanging over one's head, and the legislators gave up after two or three weeks of trying to work under such difficulties.

The session was to be resumed in February, but in the meantime a committee was to see what could be done to make the building more habitable. This committee brought in several loads of hay and spread it on the floor and then spread carpet over it. When the legislators came back in February, they found the building warm enough that they need no longer set an ink bottle on the stove before they could write.

Difficulty and Graft
There was a great deal of difficulty and graft about the building of the capitol, and it was some time before it was finished. One governor adjourned legislature for several months for fear they might appoint an investigating committee, which they threatened to do, and find that his partner, who was also the contractor, had made away with most of the funds.

When the capitol was finished it was not such a bad looking building. The dome of the present capitol covers the site of the old capitol building, which was a rather squat looking structure surmounted with a dome so closely resembling a wash-bowl that it was commonly spoken of as "Governor Doty's Wash Bowl."

The legislature of 1837 made an appropriation for enlarging and improving the building. The Civil War, however, held up this work for so long that it was not finished until about 1872. In 1882 two large wings for office space were added and the building in this form was used until the fire of 1904 after which the present capitol was erected.

The men who took part in the early legislature of 1838 were capable, able men, many of them college bred, and trained in the law. The laws which were passed in those days were few in number, compared to the modern days and were usually of a more general character. The great problem of Wisconsin in the early days was to provide adequate transportation, and many of the laws dealt with this question.

Madison in early days did not have the reputation which it has now. Catering to a certain element, many low-down grogeries abounded, and furnished the reformers with plenty of advertisement.

of evidence of the vicious life which was carried on at the state capitol. There was, it is true, a great deal of heavy drinking, but as with every frontier city, there was also the conservative element which was the real basis of the population.

Social Life
The social life of the city in early days was much the same as at present. There were dances and card parties, and nearly everyone took an interest in the winter sports. One of the favorite pastimes was horse-racing with sleds along the country roads. Feeling ran high in the territorial days and many of the hottest contests centered around the conflict between Doty and Dodge, who was one of the territorial governors. Dodge was an old Indian fighter from Dodgeville, a rough, blustering man and constantly at odds with Doty. Doty was an eastern man, with all the polish of a New York lawyer. He went about the business of getting his measures passed in a subtle way, the reverse of Dodge's straightforward methods. Governor Dodge was afterward chosen State Senator when the state was admitted into the Union in 1838.

Physicians recommend the regular use of Kellogg's Bran for mild or chronic cases and as a preventive. Bran, eaten each day and in proper quantity, sweeps, cleanses and purifies the alimentary tract.

Get away from pills and cathartics—Kellogg's Bran will give you permanent relief from constipation. Do not confuse Kellogg's Bran with common bran. Kellogg's is cooked, krumbled and ready to serve. It can be used in the most delightful baking products without in any way reducing its regulatory value. Try raisin bread or muffins or griddle-cakes made with Kellogg's Bran. Recipes are printed on each package.

Kellogg's Bran is nationally eaten for health's sake as a cereal—in winter time with hot milk. Others prefer it sprinkled over hot or cold cereals. Another way is to mix it with hot cereals just before serving. In each case add two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's Bran for each person; in chronic cases as much with each meal.

Kellogg's Bran is sold by all grocers and is supplied in individual packages at first-class hotels and clubs. Ask for it at your restaurant!

The New Barron Method Guarantees Better Linoleum Laying

Linoleum floors are only as good as they are laid. The Barron-method of cementing linoleum firmly down over a layer of special deadening felt insures a permanent floor, one that will neither buckle nor creep, but will give added years of satisfactory service.

EIGHT ADVANTAGES

Of the Barron method of better linoleum laying:

ONE—The linoleum at once becomes a solid, permanent, resilient floor. It cannot buckle, bulge or stretch.

TWO—The felt foundation which is pasted to the floor absorbs all expansion or contraction that may take place in the wood or concrete base.

THREE—The felt layer makes the linoleum more durable, thereby lengthening the life of the linoleum floor.

FOUR—The possible damage from water when laid by other methods is eliminated when laid by the Barron-method.

FIVE—It is sanitary because it is easily cleaned, smooth and free from cracks.

SIX—Economical, both in first cost and in the constant savings in maintenance expense as compared with other methods of laying.

SEVEN—In most cases the work is completed in one trip, making it unnecessary to return and disturb the room.

EIGHT—Linoleum when laid by the Barron-method can be removed without difficulty or damage, should the necessity arise.

LINOLEUM is recommended for offices, stores, hospitals, residences, billiard halls, theatres and all public buildings.

GET WISDOM

HOW much better is it to get wisdom than gold; and to get understanding rather than to be chosen than silver.
—Proverbs 16: 16.

Sign Your Name

THE Tribune is already receiving daily contributions to the Public Debate column which have to do with the men and issues in the coming spring campaign. Most of these are fair argument and exposition of the point of view of the writers, and the newspaper is not only willing but glad to print them. Such reflective reasoning on the part of the citizenship is a large and necessary factor in the operation of democratic government. But there is a tendency in all political campaigns, involving as they do the clash of personalities, to deviate from the line of constructive argument as the conflict warms up, and to carry the debate into personal fields not germane to any issue involved. This is particularly easy when the debater can shoot from the ambush of anonymity. The absence of the personal responsibility which one's name under a communication imposes is too often a temptation to indulge in temper and unfairness. For this reason the Tribune lays down for the coming campaign a rule that all communications on political matters must be signed with the full name and address of the sender, for publication. It is a rule of fairness that will operate for all candidates alike, and we hope that it will in some measure restrain the tendency toward immoderate and unjust detraction which has too frequently characterized local politics. In the Public Debate column henceforth we shall print only such argument on city politics as the writer is willing publicly to sponsor.

Behind the Wheel

PROBABLY the most illuminating fact in the state highway commission's recent report on automobile accidents in the state was that the largest percentage of smash-ups occurred on straight, smooth roads. People allow for dangerous curves and steep hills, usually they take extra precautions at railroad crossings. But the smooth straightaway lets down the bars to danger. There is no obvious peril in sight, and the temptation to step on 'er and watch the speedometer to see what the old boat'll do is too strong for most of us to resist. That's why most accidents happen where the reason for them would seem to be smallest. The danger factor is not on the road but behind the wheel.

A Lenten Editorial

Lenten Meditation

(By REV. NELLIE MANN OPDALE,
St. Paul's Universalist Church.)

"AS in the silence of night, the ear catches the least sound, so in the solitude of reflection, the mind detects soft and delicate strains of thought, unheard in the bustle of the crowd."

Rev. Mrs. Opdale

There is a very present danger threatening humanity, the danger of losing the ability to think—by reason of the rule that powers not used atrophy. We Americans are an intensely active people, rather than an especially thoughtful people. We don't take the time to think problems out for ourselves, as the more isolated peoples of fifty years ago used to do.

It is what we assimilate that adds to tissue; so mentally, it is what we ponder on that adds gray matter to the brain, and spiritual growth is no exception. It comes by meditating upon the thoughts that feed the spirit—not on gross receipts and net gains—not on the grain market or cattle breeding—not on the social outgoings and in-comings of many peoples—but on the eternal verities that will remain when all these things have passed away.

The sub-conscious life, the real man, from which all thoughts and deeds proceed, must be fed with the truths of religion, and the love of God and man—then the result will be, not what defiles, but what will ultimately purify. Thorpe's maxim was a good one, and in line. "Associate reverently, and as much as you can, with your loftiest thoughts."

Our minds are not always equal to their best work. It isn't always easy to know the right from the wrong—truth and falsehood are not always so clearly differentiated that he who runs may read—the path of duty is not always clear, and the first taste of the tempter's cup is not always bitter. Therefore, we need to give ourselves pause, when we may spend some time in thinking on "Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honorable, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, and whatsoever things are of good report." And the special season set apart as a memorial of Christ's temptation, when he proved himself through God, to be Master, is a most fitting time for such thoughtful consideration and prayerful meditation.

A congressman wants to protect oysters, which always have been reticent about speaking for themselves.

REX

BY ROSE MEREDITH

Anthony Ware read the telegram. "Please meet Rex 10:10 train Monday. Letter follows.—Ann."

Ann was his sister, Mrs. Dick Lambert, Pennantport, and Rex—was Rex one of the children or a family pet?

As Anthony drove his car to the railroad station he amused himself with recalling stories where the hero set out to meet some commonplace boy, only to find that a mistake had been made and he was actually meeting a charming girl.

"Now, this Rex person may be all of that, but I don't believe it will ever happen to me—romance is dead—out of fashion," he told himself cynically. Nevertheless his pulse did quicken as he stood at the train gate watching the arrivals from the 10:10 train. Men, women and children all passed by him, were either welcomed by some excited person or went sedately about their business of getting out of the station. Toward the last there came a dainty figure in seal brown, with a porter bearing wraps and bags, on one bag his quick eyes read "Rex" in red letters. He paused before her with bared head.

"Miss Rex?" he inquired humbly. She scanned him with doubting eyes. "I am not expecting anyone to meet me," she said frigidly.

"My sister, Mrs. Lambert of Pennantport, asked me to meet you," he explained. "I am Anthony Ware."

She looked perturbed. "I am sure there is some mistake, Mr. Ware, for I am not acquainted with Mrs. Lambert."

Anthony bowed humbly, murmured an apology and strode away, feeling that he had been detected in some impertinent attempt to scrape acquaintance with a beautiful young stranger. On the platform he passed a baggage-truck laden with trunks labeled "Rex" and with at his sister Ann redoubled; he bolted into the nearest telephone booth and demanded long-distance. Presently Ann's voice, small and faint, came winging across the country.

"I have your message," he said to her, "but who is Rex?"

"Who is what?" she moaned. "Rex."

"Oh, Rex? What about him—did you meet him?"

"No."

"I can't understand a word you say," she protested. "Can't you spell R. T. O. N.?"

"Speak louder," he urged.

"Spell it—spell what you want to say. I can't understand."

"R-E-X," he roared. "Did you get that?"

"Express? I sent him by express—birthday present."

"Birthday—mine—my birthday. Thank you, Ann—thank you, my dear. I will write a letter."

He burst out of the stuffy booth, hot and pent-up—he had forgotten that the morning was his birthday, but Ann always remembered dates; he must write to her and apologize.

At the express office they told him that the package had been sent out to be delivered with other packages to the same person.

Anthony hurried home to his room, only to be told that no express package had arrived; and he waited with some impatience for the arrival of Rex. He had wanted a dog and he had admitted some Alsatians at the Fasse Kennels one day when Ann drove him over there. He hoped Rex was an Alsatian.

The telephone bell rang.

"Yes," boomed Anthony's voice. "This is Anthony Ware—"

"I am Helen King," fluted a charming voice. "Some express packages addressed to you have been delivered to me through mistake."

"I am sorry that you have been bothered. May I ask if there is a dog among them?"

"Yes—the dearest Alsatian—he is crazy to get out and go somewhere. Will you send for him?"

"Will come at once—Randolph street?" he hazarded. Because the only King he knew—Selah King, the banker, lived there.

"Yes, 72, and come quickly; he is so miserable," she urged. And he lunged with her ropes came a thin doggy-bowl.

"Coming," he called and leaped for his hat. A taxi here him swiftly to the King residence, where a servant admitted him to a snug living room. Miss King came at once—a dainty figure in a seal brown broadcloth trimmed with fur, her fair hair fluffing softly about the lovely face of the stranger Anthony had met in the railroad station. Their meeting was a moment of delicious embarrassment. The entrance of Rex, led by a maid, relieved the situation. The dog, recognizing friends, fell upon them rapturously and their mutual admiration for Ann Lambert's birthday gift opened the way to the explanations that were necessary.

"Rex's name was on the crate as well as your own, Mr. Ware, and so they simply sent it here with my things—all labeled 'REX.'"

"But your name is King," he protested.

"Yet, but when I was in college I had my baggage labeled 'Rex,' because, well, I don't like to see my name glaring from every trunk and baggage—and I can identify them easily."

That evening Ware met Miss King at a dinner party and she looked so lovely, so charming and she was so gracious to Rex's master that his heart was completely won.

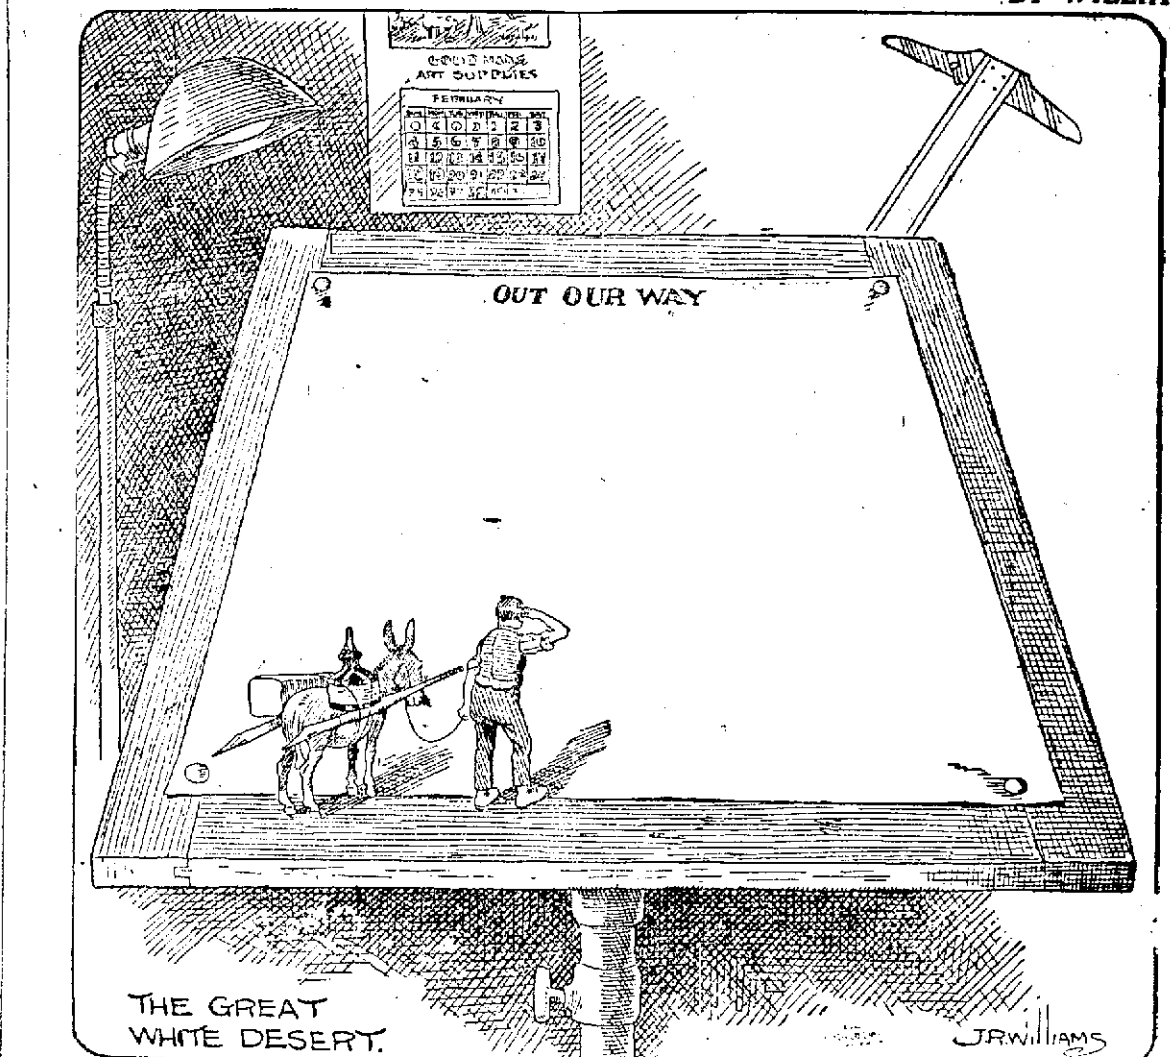

It was a whole year before he had another birthday—he took Rex with him to call on Helen King. The Alsatian trotted gravely across the room to meet her, carrying a basket of fragrant sweet peas dangling beneath his homely countenance.

HOOVER URGES MUTUAL UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE

By HARRY HUNT
NEA Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON.—Insurance to protect workers against unemployment was urged by Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, in an exclusive interview with NEA Service here today.

The type of insurance advocated by Hoover would aim—

"to provide for wives and families of workers when the workers are 'laid off.'"

To stem the continual migration of seekers from place to place.

To benefit employers by enabling them to keep the same employees from year to year without losing efficiency by training new staffs after every industrial depression.

"Unemployment insurance, in my judgment, should be developed in the hands of mutual, non-governmental institutions," Mr. Hoover said.

"Most organized labor opposes governmental unemployment insurance. But I believe that as a voluntary insurance in mutual form, it could and would meet with approval just as all other rightly founded insurance has proved its worth."

"In what way would such insurance be provided?" I inquired. "Who would pay the premiums? What would be the approximate cost in proportion to wages?"

"The workers are not the only ones who suffer during depressions of employment," Hoover answered. "There is a great loss to industry due to the scattering of workers. The average man out of a job does not idly wait for his job to open for him again. He seeks work. If he cannot find it in the city where he is, he looks elsewhere."

"As a result, organizations are disrupted. There is lost time and added expense in gathering new workers and fitting them into their jobs."

"This would be saved to the employer who had taken out employment insurance for his workers. During the period of slack employment he would be enabled to hold his force together."

"The insurance payments would provide for the men who had been laid off and their families, just as sickness or accident insurance would carry them through a period of idleness enforced through illness or accident."

"But wouldn't that be—at the start at least—expensive insurance? Wouldn't the rates be experimental at first, probably high and tend to discourage employers from attempting it?"

"Some actual experience already exists in various countries. And even upon our own statistics of unemployment it could be given a sound actuarial basis if applied to large groups. It would be a mutual undertaking. I do not believe the cost would exceed one or two per cent of the payroll."

"There are a great many employers who would today join in the cost of such insurance if it were undertaken. With great industrial groups united in such joint action, risks would decrease and a great measure of security be established for employees."

"There is nothing that leads to such despair and decay of self-respect as being out of a job when a man wants work and when the support of his family is in jeopardy."

"Here remains a great field where insurance can be newly developed."

THREE CONFESS TO POSTOFFICE THEFT IN BADGER VILLAGE

Appleton Men Sentenced to Three Years in Federal Pen at Leavenworth

MILWAUKEE.—John and Philip Albrecht and John MacFarlane, all of Appleton, pleaded guilty in federal court Thursday to blowing the safe in the postoffice at Dale, near Appleton and stealing $635 in cash and stamps. They were sentenced to three years in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kansas.

William O. McLaughlin, assistant district attorney, told Judge P. A. Geiger that the three men, armed, had driven from Appleton to Dale the night of November 16. While John Albrecht remained in the car just outside the city the others climbed the door of the postoffice and blew the safe with dynamite.

John Albrecht and MacFarlane went to John's home, where the loot was divided. Philip never got his, being arrested before he got in touch with his associates. Learning that officers had secured a clue to the identity of burglars, the men burned the stamps, which included all but $360 of the loot. The money they placed in a tin box and hid in an empty lot adjoining John Albrecht's home.

Ideas About Pictures and Frames Brought Out in Home Makers Course

Should girl calendars be framed and hung in the parlor? Are enlarged crayon pictures of remote relatives appropriate in the modern home? Should a living room be considered incomplete without "Pharaoh's Horses" and "Cupid Awake?" These and many other questions about choosing, framing and hanging pictures were answered by Miss Ellen Hillstrom in her talk on "Appropriate Pictures for the Home" to Wisconsin women attending the short course for home makers at Madison recently.

Here are some of the points emphasized in her discussion:

"There are pictures for every home but only a few that are really appropriate for your home. Your choice depends on the kind of picture that appeals to you most, whether it be landscape, pictures of the water, or a vigorous personality. Since there are reproductions of practically all the famous masterpieces, your choice is wide, but if in doubt resort to pictures that have stood the test. Landscapes by Corot and sea pictures by Turner are examples of such.

"Pictures in a room must be in harmony with one another, not only in period but also in subject, color and treatment. Moreover, they should be in scale with the space on which they are to go.

"Photographs of our friends belong in the bedroom and not in parlor or reception room.

"The function of the picture frame is to hold the picture in place, to demarcate it slightly from the wall but still to relate them both. When you notice the frame before you do the picture you may be sure the frame is not in good taste.

"The modern idea in picture framing is to get away from the ornate. The heavy frames belong to pictures that are dark in color and heavy in weight. Light frames belong to dainty and small pictures. A good rule for framing is: 'A little lighter than the darkest value of your picture.'

"How to frame different kinds of pictures? Here are a few suggestions: Oil paintings are framed without glass and in gilt frames. The tinted gilt frame is best. Reproductions of oil paintings are flatter than oil and hence require less heavy frames. A gilt frame toned or perhaps a little of the color in the picture used in the frame is good. Pastels should have a wood frame colored in one of the colors in the picture. Etchings are best framed in dark brown, black or perhaps oxidized silver. Japanese prints generally have a narrow dull gray or black molding.

"White mounts for pictures are seldom good unless there is a lot of white in the room. Etchings generally have the white mount. Whether a picture is mounted or not depends largely upon the space in which it is to go. When a mount is used it should match the colors of the frame and of the picture.

"The best way to hang a large picture is to suspend it from two hooks. One wire passes through the two eyes on the back of the frame. A picture hung this way can be straightened easily at any time. Straightened wires or cords draw attention away from the picture itself.

"Don't hang a wide picture on a narrow wall nor narrow pictures on wide walls unless the pictures are grouped to take away the elongated appearance.

"Pictures should be related to the furniture in the room. The picture should be placed so close to the article of furniture that they form one decorative unit. Pictures should be hung with regard to the light in a room. Light, dainty pictures need to be hung where it is light. Brilliant pictures can stand to be hung in the shadows of a room. Dull or heavy pictures should be hung in moderate light. Pictures should be hung near the eye level. If the ceilings are too high bring the picture molding down. Remember that oil paintings require much more space than water colors. Do not group oils with water colors.

"Avoid hanging pictures on a pattern background. A wall paper that has considerable pattern in it does not require pictures. Avoid obscuring the view of a picture. If the picture is hung over a cabinet then do not put a vase in front of it.

"Avoid overdoing in the matter of hanging pictures. Unadorned space in a room is restful and emphasizes the worth of individual pictures."

Sensitive Chinese Prisoners

When the municipal administration of Honan, South China, decreed that all prisoners should be used in street improvement and city sanitation work, they vigorously protested on the score that such menial occupation would cause them to lose "face" with their friends. Accordingly, the armed guard with each squad of prisoners carried his rifle in one hand and a basket in the other, into which the prisoners haughtily tossed paper and rubbish.

EVERYBODY MUST HAVE A LONG SPRING WRAP

COPYRIGHT BY M. CALLS

Cape-like lines characterize full length spring wraps.

As in one of the models sketched, the irregular hemline is very smart. Circular lines also are popular. The other sketch is that of a wrap with wide sleeves that are little more than armholes. A deep pleat gives a yolk effect.

Short coats are in favor too. The smartly dressed woman will be sure to have a jacketette this spring, but she'll have it in addition to, not in place of, her long wrap. Nothing can quite substitute for the full length coat or cape which covers the whole of one's frock so neatly.

EXPORTS FALL OFF

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(A. P.)—The country's exports during January totaled $339,000,000, according to preliminary figures made public Friday by the commerce department, while exports for December were $344,425,364. Department officials viewed the decrease as due to economic conditions in Europe.

"Cut Out the Accidents"

The outstanding feature of accident statistics in recent years is that, although up to 1919 there was a steady decrease in the number of accidental deaths, this decrease came to a halt in 1920 and then began to climb upward. To what can this increase be attributed other than a lack of consciousness in preserving human life? How can it be remedied except by an awakening of intelligent Americans, who now stand by while 714 of every million lives are snuffed out by accidents, each year, as compared with England's 369.

Boats Shaped Like Tubes

Mesopotamia, land of the Garden of Eden and Mount Ararat, is just as much a picturesque spot as when Cain and Abel were boys. Along the Tigris river are boats which look more like tubes. They are made of wicker, from five to ten feet in diameter, and are tarred to make them waterproof. They are called "goofus."

Clubwomen Propose Patriotic Sings

PLANS are under way to "poster community singing in La Crosse, according to Mrs. A. W. Schall, chairman of the art and music committee of the Twentieth Century club. A plan has been made, with the co-operation of J. L. Koppeler of the La Crosse Theaters company, to start community sings during the week of Washington's birthday in the theaters. Slides of "The Star Spangled Banner" are being made for the Twentieth Century club to be thrown upon the screen in the Rivoli theater during that week, and audiences attending movies will be asked to join in the singing of the national anthem. Women's clubs throughout the state are interested in promoting community singing, and every effort is being made to establish this as a national custom. The songs suggested particularly for Washington's birthday are: "The Star Spangled Banner," "America," "Hail Columbia," "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean," "Yankee Doodle," and "Beneath a Weeping Willow's Shade."

Alphabet Will Plan Bazaar of County Council

Each of Booths Will Have Letter—and Live Up to It

"A" is for aprons, "B" is for baking and "C" is for candy at the alphabetical bazaar planned by the Community Council for St. Patrick's day, to be held at the Y. M. C. A. on Seventh and Main streets. At the "B" booth, there will be a radio where patrons of the bazaar may "listen in" on Pittsburgh or St. Louis concerts—with even a chance of catching something from France or South America.

"N" for Norsk Cookery
The most enticing, because there the council plans to have real Norwegian coffee with cakes and cookies served throughout the day. There will be a "P" for parcel post, booth, at which one may buy mysterious packages which may contain almost any delightful surprise.

Though March 17 seems far away, it is really only one month, and the members and friends of the Community Council are urged by the committee in charge of the bazaar to start working immediately on aprons and fancy work for the booths, and to plan to contribute home baking, canned goods and jellies to the sale. The Western Wisconsin Teachers' association will be in La Crosse on that day, and the council hopes that many of the members of the association will attend the bazaar. So it particularly wants to make a good showing.

Phone in Your Help
Telephone Mrs. Gust F. Sexaner, 729-A, or Mrs. John M. Blair, 2560-M, that you will donate to the bazaar and let them know what to plan on from you.

SUTILEY
The word "sutiley" occurs in the president's letter to Will Hays. It isn't in the New Standard. That dictionary gives "sutile, made or done by stitching." Will "sutiley" become as generally used as Harding's famous "normalcy" or Cleveland's equally famous "innocuous desecration"?

IN COMPLIMENT to her birthday, Mrs. Arthur Carr was happily surprised Wednesday afternoon by a party of her friends at her home, 1802 Kane street. Beavers Drive Away Deer

A well-known guide offers a solution as to the reason for the scarcity of deer in places where they have formerly been numerous. A large part of it he attributes to the work of that busy little animal, the beaver. The beaver, he says, builds a dam across a brook that flows through a swamp. This overflows the swamp, kills the evergreens and drives the deer from his winter home.

COLOR, MOVEMENT, LIFE! THEY'RE MY ART—GIRL POSTER CREATOR SAYS

NEW YORK.—Vyvyan Donner is the latest artist to capture Broadway. She's given us something new in the way of posters.

This enterprising and altogether lovely young person looked over her collection of art papers—blues and greens from Japan, golds and lacquer reds from China, color prints from her mother's day, and wall paper from our own, and created the "vitalized silhouette."

Lets of Color
The "vitalized silhouette" has colors like Joseph's coat. It makes the old-fashioned silhouette look like ancient history.

"I give my figures lots of vitality, life, color and movement," Miss Donner explains, "and nobody notices that they lack features."

"People can apply this hint to themselves. Bad features won't count against you if you have an abundance of life and pep."

"I did my first color silhouette for a theatrical review. Then I was swamped with orders from theatrical sources."

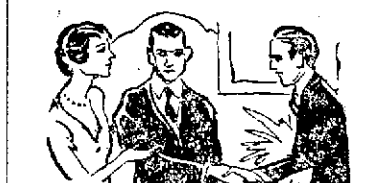

Decorating Came Next
"Later came commissions to decorate some of Broadway's fashionable cafes.

"With all this work on my hands I had to turn to history to find inspiration for my figures. That led me into costume designing. So, besides designing costumes for a number of theatrical productions, I have published more than 150 articles on the history of costumes and accessories."

"But my long-distance record is in millinery. For six years I've designed one hat a day for a single large house."

GOOD MANNERS

It's poor form to express one's likes and dislikes—especially the latter—very forcibly in any gathering where one is not particularly well acquainted. It's a good rule in general, and often there are occasions when its disregard may prove most embarrassing.

LEATHER COATS

Leather coats in bright blues and greens, that just reach the waistline, are a novelty launched this season by a prominent French designer. They combine well with printed fabrics as well as all white.

FRITTERS

BY BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH
OF Columbia University

To make banana fritters, take:
Three bananas, a cupful each of flour and milk, the yolks of two eggs, well beaten, whites of the same eggs, beaten until stiff, two tablespoons of powdered sugar, a tablespoon of lemon juice, a half tablespoon of melted butter or oil, a quarter tablespoon of salt, and hot fat, lard or oil.

Add milk to flour and salt and make a smooth batter, add egg yolks, and just before frying, fold in the stiffly beaten whites of eggs.

Peel and scrape the bananas, cut them into halves, cut each half again lengthwise, sprinkle with lemon juice and sugar and let stand for 15 minutes; then dip each piece of banana into the batter, thoroughly covering it, and put it in the hot fat.

Fry two minutes, drain and serve with melted jelly or any hot fruit juice, slightly thickened.

WOMAN HAS CLUE TO IDENTITY OF TORTURE VICTIM

Murdered Man is Missing Chicago Chauffeur is Belief of Authorities

VIEWS BODY IN ATTEMPT TO ESTABLISH IDENTIFICATION

Says Husband Was Bootlegging
Between Chicago and Zion

CHICAGO, Ill.—Partial identification of the murdered man whose body was found in a sepulchre of snow deep in a grove on a lonely road five miles west of Geneva Tuesday, was established Thursday night.

The victim of the torture slaying is believed to be Willard Olson, 23 years old, a chauffeur, who formerly lived at 9852 Avenue H. His wife told Chief of Detectives Michael Hughes that the newspaper descriptions of the dead man pointed to her missing husband in every particular.

Views Body at Geneva

Mrs. Alvina Reed Olson, the wife, was taken to Geneva, where the body lies, by Lieut. John J. Farrell of the detective bureau, in an effort to establish positive identification.

Olson left his home on Feb. 4, according to the story first told to Lieut. Paul Wheeler of the South Chicago police and later reiterated before Chief Hughes. Five days later the home in Avenue H burned and Mrs. Olson took her 10 months old daughter Shirley and went to live at the home of her father, Jacob Reed, at 9715 Irving avenue.

On Thursday about 7:30 a. m. Mrs. Olson last saw her husband at the home of his mother, 10210 Avenue L. He was bootlegging, she said, driving a rum truck between Chicago and Zion City.

At the home of J. W. Rediker, 1913 Cornelia avenue, Mrs. Rediker told Chief Hughes over the telephone that Olson had been employed by her husband before Christmas, but that they had not heard of him nor seen him since that time. Rediker, she said, was in Milwaukee, Wis., and would not return to Chicago until 6 o'clock Friday morning, when police will question him to obtain additional information concerning Olson.

Denies Rediker Job

Mrs. Olson denied the statement that her husband had been in Rediker's employ before Christmas and asserted that at that time he was working for Philip T. Reed, 1045 Indianapolis boulevard, South Chicago, as a truck driver. She was positive of this connection, she said, because Olson left Reed's service disgruntled at not having received a Christmas present.

A warrant for the arrest of Olson was sworn out by his wife on Jan. 17 on charges of non-support of wife and child. At the meeting of the couple a week ago Thursday Olson told his wife that he had two weeks' pay coming and that he would collect it and go to the South Chicago police station and have the warrant withdrawn. This he never did. He was living in a hotel over a restaurant at Clark and Randolph streets, Mrs. Olson said he told her.

A lock of her husband's hair was exhibited by Mrs. Olson. It was the same dark red as that on the charred head of the murdered man. He had a scar on one shoulder, she said, which would account for the chunk of flesh cut from the body of the slain man as a precaution against identification.

The legal control of the magazine is disputed by Grady K. Rutledge, president of the publishing company, and Robert E. Shepherd, treasurer of the American Unity league. While this dispute remains unsettled both sides agreed to submit news articles to Judge Rayner who would pass upon their relative news value and designate which should be printed. This agreement was made, it was announced, in order that the periodical's circulation would not be endangered.

LENINE HAS PLAN FOR RESTORATION OF RUSS INDUSTRY

Rehabilitation of Iron, Steel and Mining Industries Held Necessary to Preparedness

MOSCOW—Leon Trotsky is preparing a plan for the rehabilitation of Russia's iron and steel and mining industries. The plan would be submitted to the congress of the Communist party next month. It is principally designed to bring about quick resumption of the manufacture of peace time machinery but the war minister, in common with the other Soviet leaders, has shown by his writings that he accepts the theory that any nation's success in war depends upon its metal output.

"The Red Army is not the necessity merely of a year or five years," he writes, "for the revolutionary movement and the epoch of imperialistic wars will continue not for months and not for years, but for decades, embracing the world after short breathing spaces and with new and heavier sickening spasms."

During these breathing spells, he indicates, the Red Army should prepare seriously and permanently.

RUSSIAN DANCER IS FEATURED IN VILLAGE FOLLIES

Anna Nurova, the shapely Russian dancer whose Slavic beauty illuminates many of the swift-moving episodes in the second annual revue of the Greenwich Village Follies, the gay and ankle spectacle which comes to the La Crosse theatre Saturday and Sunday, February 17 and 18, is a graduate of the Valiska Gymnasium in Moscow. Because of his political activities her father was forced to leave Russia three years before the czar was toppled from his tottering throne. He was a confident of the czar's, but the secret police suspected him of revolutionary tendencies, and it was only through the aid of a friend in the French embassy, who supplied him with passports, that he escaped his native country with his life.

Anna had studied dancing at the Valiska Gymnasium, and shortly after arrived in this country with Pavlova and her Russian Ballet. The ballet master with the Pavlova company was Antonio Nello, and they formed the dancing team of Nello and Nurova. So barbarous is their whirlwind Russian dance in the Follies, you would think they had wandered in off the steppes.

Nello and Nurova are artists to their fingertips, and they have a studio in Sheridan Square in Greenwich Village where they teach dancing when the "Follies" is in New York.

OPTOMETRY NOT MEDICINE SAYS DR. H. C. EVENSON

It is Measuring Defects of Eye and Prescribing Glasses to Compensate

DISEASED EYES NOT
SAME AS DEFECTIVE

Variations in Optometric Skill
as in Other Professions

WHEN all the people understand that the measurement of the human eye for the purpose of diagnosing its defects, and prescribing proper glasses for the relief thereof, is not practicing medicine, they will understand the difference between the Optometrist and the Oculist. The Optometrist is a specialist in the scientific examination of the eyes. A physician or surgeon is not practicing medicine when he is fitting your eyes with glasses, even though this physician assumes the title oculist. Any physician can assume the title "oculist."

Defects Not Disease
Diseased eyes and defective eyes are entirely different conditions to be handled in thoroughly different ways. When glasses are needed nothing else will take their place. There is no substitute.

Yes, we have over eight doctors of medicine who fit glasses in La Crosse. The Optometry law exempts doctors of medicine, the same as the dental laws exempt doctors of medicine, but the people know the difference between the dentist and the physician. And until the people know the difference between the Optometrist and the Oculist, the Optometrist is going to continue to advertise. Why shouldn't the Optometrist advertise?

When you read about $10,000.00 worth of radium lost in an ash pile, what is it, advertising or news? When you read the advertising of the Optometrist, what is it, advertising or news? It is only a difference in the rates. The purpose is the same.

Mistakes are made in fitting glasses, but the mistakes are not limited to the Optometrist. You do not accept all physicians or surgeons. All physicians are not of equal quality. All Optometrists are not of equal quality.

Who believed twenty years ago, that the Optometrist could straighten crossed eyes? It is not so expensive a method as surgery, but is done without suffering. A child or man quite naturally during the first period of adaptation of the lenses prescribed may expect more or less discomfort, but this soon passes away without pain.

Service to Public
There are a lot of children that would be benefited with the proper diagnosis of their defects of vision. Even our workers in the industries would increase their production, and do it with greater comfort and ease, if their defective vision was diagnosed. And the Optometrist is prepared to give this service, and must advertise the fact.

The Optometrists are not all equal.

Costs Next to Nothing—for a Big Supply

Whenever anyone in my family catches cold and begins to cough and sneeze, and haw and breathe heavily, it doesn't take me many minutes to fix up a remedy that will drive away all such troubles in double quick time. It's no secret—anyone can make a half pint of the finest cough medicine in the world for a trifle.

Get from any druggist one ounce of paraffin (double strength)—in this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make one-half pint—that's all there is to it.

Run now you've got a real medicine—mind you—the first spoonful you take acts directly on the membrane of the throat and nose, the tickle ceases almost instantly—the inflammation begins to disappear—up comes the stuffy mucus and often in 24 hours every trace of the cough that frightened you is gone.

It's really remarkable how this home made remedy acts on the mucous membrane and that is one reason it is so helpful to thousands of Catarrh sufferers.

ly as skillful, nor are any of the other professional men equally skillful. All Optometrists are licensed to practice Optometry. All physicians are licensed to practice medicine, and some of them go farther, and fit and sell glasses as a side line to their profession of medicine. Some of the family doctors of La Crosse fit glasses, but they do not assume the title oculist, but they can, if they choose to. There is no law to prevent it.

With the increased use of artificial illumination, and the increased numbers in the industrial world, you will see more eye glasses worn. Why not? As it becomes more difficult for the eyes to focus the light at the bench or table, the lenses train the light for the weakened or tired eyes.

Lenses Not Medicine
Lenses are not pills or medicine. Lenses merely train the light, by

Try This If You Have Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

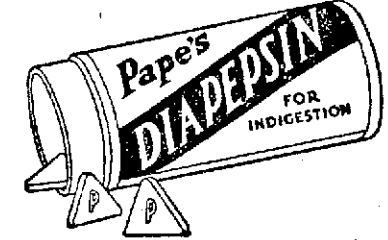

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and itching of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be shiny, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

that the lenses were magical, and some make them a mystery today. Peddlers and fakirs tell about the glass in the lens coming from the bottom of the ocean, and folks buy such glasses, after trying the glasses, to see how well they can see. The better they are enabled to see, the higher the price for the glasses. Of course this is all passing, and people pay for the skill of the Optometrist.

If you can write the correct formula on a piece of paper, that will accurately measure the defects of your eyes, I will make the glasses from your formula for one-half what you will pay for a pair of glasses. Glasses that do not accurately fit your eyes are worthless, but some people will tolerate worthless glasses.

The examiner who has to wear glasses himself is not as skillful in his measurements of the eyes, as the man who does not need glasses. The examiner who wears glasses to measure your eyes has to make allowance for the glasses he wears, in calculating the formula for your lenses.

You will see many more people wearing glasses as a preventative measure. Eyestrain has many reflexes, and we have headaches and other kindred ills, but the people must select their Optometrist with discretion. The products from which glasses are made can be purchased in the open market, and there are manufacturers that make glasses and advertise purely from the industrial standpoint.

Value is in Skill
The value of a pair of glasses lies in the skill of the Optometrist, just as the value of a surgical operation lies in the skill of the surgeon, and not in the surgical instruments. The instrument is only one of the means of service. Glasses is only one of the means of giving ocular service.

The day is fast arriving when folks will not say, "I want to buy a pair of glasses," but will seek the service of a skilled Optometrist, who is able, after careful measurements with instruments of precision, for measuring the refraction of the eyes, to write the correct formula for the lenses.

Optometry and the Optometrist are young and new. How long is it since the dentist came into life? Some day you will see the Optometrist at the welfare clinics, recognized for his skill in serving and ministering to the child with defective vision.

Prejudice and jealousy has to have its day. Our opinions often hurt us worse than the thing itself. The courts, the legislature and the colleges declare Optometry is not medicine, so when you read the advice in the Health Column to seek the service of the oculist for glasses, it is advertising, and when you see the Optometrist telling you to seek his service, remember it is advertising. When you see the advice in any part of a newspaper or magazine to seek the service of a physician remember it is advertising, and it is often good advice, but it is advertising.

There is no harm in any honest effort to advertise in a newspaper or any other way. It is merely our opinion that hurts us. Seldom do we see any person object to the newspaper's mention of his name in a complimentary way. Is there any harm in paying for the service, if you will sign your name to the complimentary?

Some day I am going to offer a cash prize to the student who can best describe the difference between the Oculist and the Optometrist, because there is a big difference. "DOC." H. CLAY EVENSON.

CHINESE SLAVE GIRL OF 'FRISCO TELLS HER STORY

Every Liner from Orient, Says
Investigator, Adds to Quota

SAN FRANCISCO.—Every horror of the slave trade in Chinese girls, which has resulted in several indictments here, is epitomized in the experiences of Lim Tsuei, a slave recently rescued.

Of the thousands of girls who have been bought in China and brought to this country, Lim Tsuei is the first to tell her story for publication. Fear of the tong man's gun or dirk have sealed the lips of others.

Lim Tsuei's story was obtained for NEA Service by Fred V. Williams, whose exposure of the slave trade in his novel, "Silver Flower," now being printed in the San Francisco Daily News, has created a furore on the Pacific coast.

By FRED V. WILLIAMS
Author of "Silver Flower."

The story of Lim Tsuei is the story of 75 per cent of the Chinese slave girls in America.

Every liner that ploughs through the Golden Gate from the Orient brings its quota. They land here as "merchants' wives" and soon are swallowed in the Chinese underworld.

San Francisco is the chief slave market. Girl slaves are literally sold to the highest bidder. Their "masters" take them wherever they please.

In China their prices range from $50 to $200. Here they bring from $2000 to $5000. As a girl grows older or loses her health her value decreases. In the meantime she must earn back her price and a profit.

At the immigration station on Angel Island there are today 45 Chinese girls. Tomorrow a boat will leave as many more. Some of them are fated for shame and suffering. Where are they going? What will become of them?

These questions are answered by Lim Tsuei.

"I was kidnapped from my home in the Kwong Tung province in China by bandits. They sold me for $25 to a woman in Canton who kept me as a servant until I was 15.

"Then I was sold for $100 to a dealer in slave girls. I begged her not to send me into the resorts of Hongkong, to which shipments of girls were made from her house each week.

"This woman said she would find me a rich husband from America. I was very happy. He came in the person of a 'Mr. Lee' from San Francisco. Mr. Lee paid $200 and took me before the American consulate at Canton where we were married. My husband was American born and carried citizenship papers.

"I had no idea that anything but a happy home awaited me. My husband left me when the steamer docked in San Francisco and said he would call for me. I never saw him again.

"I learned afterward that he was a highbinder and that he had received $700 to marry me and bring me to this country.

"I was at the immigration station two months when a white attorney called for me with landing papers. He said he would take me to my husband.

"He took me in a closed cab to Chinatown and left me in charge of an old woman. When I asked for my husband she laughed and said 'there was no husband.'

"The old woman brought me a bundle of clothes and ordered me to put them on. Then she told me my doom.

"I have paid altogether $3600 for you, and I must get it back," she said. She promised I could buy my freedom by earning this amount.

"Tonight," she added, "you must entertain my customers."

"That night I refused to work. The old woman beat me terribly and locked me up in a dark room with rats. By morning I was so terrified that I agreed to obey her in everything.

"My first owner sold me in six months. My second owner told me that he had paid $4000 for me and before I could go free I must earn that amount.

"Frequently I was told I would be killed by the highbinders if I ran away.

"My owners belonged to longa. These tong employed gunmen. It was the duty of these gunmen to guard us. There have been many cases where slave girls have been murdered when they tried to flee.

"I became ill and began to lose my beauty. My owner, a member of the On Yick Tong, shipped me to Stockton. A highbinder of the Suey Sing Tong fancied me and one night at the point of a gun he kidnapped me and took me back to San Francisco.

"The On Yick Tong threatened war with the Suey Sing Tong if the kidnapper did not return me or pay for me. A Buddhist priest in Chinatown helped raise the money and took a part ownership in me. Thereafter I worked for two owners.

"My earnings in six years as a slave girl have exceeded $18,000—all of which my masters took. There are hundreds of girls like me, bought and sold, body and soul."

STREET OILER IS BOUGHT BY SPARTA FOR USE IN SPRING

May Grimshaw, Grand Lecturer,
O. E. S., Speaks Friday; Blizzard Halts Rural Carriers

SPARTA, Wis.—May Grimshaw of Elroy, the grand lecturer of the state of Wisconsin for the Order of Eastern Star, will be in Sparta Friday night to inspect the local chapter on ritual and floor work. The officers are planning on entertaining their guest at the Sidney at a six-fifteen o'clock dinner and extend a cordial invitation to all members of the order to join them. A chicken dinner will be served.

The common council of the city of Sparta has purchased a $1,000 Austin-Western street oiler from the firm in Chicago to be delivered May 1. All non-paved streets in the city will be oiled this summer to eliminate the dust. Street Commissioner George Mannel went to Chicago to attend the national road show and there looked into the question of an offer. Previously a county road oiler has been rented.

Deputy Revenue Collector W. F. Parsons will be at the postoffice in Sparta on February 28 to March 1st for the purpose of assisting citizens in rendering their United States income tax return for the year ended December 31, 1922.

The worst storm of the season struck Sparta and vicinity Tuesday afternoon between two and three o'clock. The snow blocked the sidewalks and roads in many places. The eight rural carriers out of Sparta were forced to return from their routes early Wednesday morning, not one of them being able to make the rounds because of the snow drifts.

The fire company was called out three or four times for small blazes, in most cases, resulting from overheated chimneys. There was a small fire in the second hand store operated by Mr. Spencer and one in the rooms over Oscar Noren's printing office on Water street. No great damage was done in any instance.

Items That Help Us Grasp Size of British Debt

Great Britain and the United States have agreed upon a way to settle their financial differences. The settlement of "this momentous question," says the British Chancellor, "is a necessary prelude to settlement of European questions." "Here," says President Harding, "is the first clearing of the war-clouded skies in a debt-burdened world. . . . It is a recommitment of the English-speaking world to the validity of contract; it is, in effect, a plight against war and war expenditures."

BAD BREAKS RUIN CHANCES OF GREEN BAY PIN-SMASHERS

Bellevues and Beaumonts Fail to Place Among Leaders in Thursday Events

FREY'S LUNCH, ANTIGO, GOES INTO FIFTH IN FIVE MAN EVENT

Few Changes Expected With But Two Days Left in Tournament

GREEN BAY, Wis.—With the failure of two of Green Bay's most consistent five man pin stars—the Bellevues and the Beaumonts—to cut in the leaders' column at Thursday's festivities also went flunking the last apparent hope of any local five-man squad receiving a slice of the prize money. Doped to win a place among the pin stars, both teams fell down unable to reach the ranks of even the tenth place holders. Plenty of splits and bad breaks ruined the local chances.

To Frey's Lunch of Antigo goes the honor of jumping into fifth place in the five-man event. The Antigo restauranters scored a total of 2918 points, showing the Royal Printers, Milwaukee, back to sixth place. The Northwesterners were the first to score two total scores over 1,000 pins, collecting 1,005 in the second and 1,031 in the final. A poor start of 877 sticks held down the Antigo representatives to what otherwise would have been a sure first. T. Metaxas was high point getter of the quintet, scoring 622.

With but two days to go before the termination of the tournament, few changes are expected. Pin stars who were stilled by the blizzard, were able to arrive in time to fill their schedule but did not disturb the leaders to any appreciable degree.

Additional Madison and Green Bay representatives will launch their attack Friday on the pins.

Snow Holds Up Teams

APPLETON, Wis.—Due to the clogged up roads, New London and Shawano teams which were scheduled to come here on Thursday in the state "Elks" tournament, did not show up and as the result their place in the tournament was given to Appleton "Booster" squads who will roll Friday. Oshkosh will be here Saturday and Sunday.

HIGH SCHOOL SCHEDULE RE-VAMPED AND MADISON CENTRAL HERE SATURDAY

Eleventh Hour Arrangement Brings Strong Quintet Here This Week; Two Games at Madison Postponed; Last Home Game Saturday

AT the request of Coach Johnson of Madison Central high school, and Coach Davis of the University high of Madison, the games which were to have been played at Madison this week-end have been postponed until next week-end, February 23 and 24.

As a result of this postponement Madison Central high will come to La Crosse Saturday night, February 17, for the first meeting between these two teams. This is the last chance for La Crosse fans to witness their team in action at Nixon gym this season, as the remainder of the games are all out of town.

Biggest Game

La Crosse is about to meet the strongest aggregation on its schedule. Madison Central high gave local fans a thriller last year when they scalped the locals by one point in the fastest and most exciting basketball game ever encountered by a La Crosse high team. Madison Central is known all over the state this year and is even considered stronger than University high. A long string of victories has made the state. They have defeated thus far such teams as Beloit, Racine, Edgerton, Stoughton, and one of their most important victories is one over Waukesha high school. The defeat of Waukesha at Waukesha was a feat in itself, being the first time in three years that this team has been defeated on its own floor.

Have Powerful Defensives

The great strength of the Madison Central team lies in its development of a powerful defensive. This defensive will be tested to the limit when they meet the fast and smashing offensive of the locals Saturday night. La Crosse high has maintained a strong defensive themselves this season as is indicated by the comparatively small number of points hung up against them. This department showed great improvement in the last game with Winona when that team resorted to numerous long shots.

This game will be one of the most interesting struggles in the state and the attention of all the strong high school teams of Wisconsin will center on it.

Three spectacular players hold bonus on the Madison team. Tripolini, who showed such exceptional speed on the gridiron this fall along with Dunn, a clever and equally fast basketball star, constitute the nucleus of their quintet. Another brilliant performer, Coach Johnson's latest find, is the rambly center, Pahlmeyer. These men work together to perfection.

Coach Keegan's squad has stepped out with new pep and determination this last week and are now in the best of condition to meet the powerful Capital City aggregation.

Owing to the fact that the La Crosse-Madison Central high games have drawn overflow crowds at Nixon gym it is requested that everyone be there early so that all may be seated by game time which is 8:15 sharp. The student body will as usual occupy the south bleachers so as to organize the seating. Down town patrons are requested to occupy the north bleachers. Season tickets will admit to this game and as it is the last and biggest game to be contested on the local floor until tournament time there is no doubt but that the attendance will be the greatest it has ever been in the history of the school.

WALTER HOOVER WILL NOT DEFEND DIAMOND SCULLS AT ENGLISH HENLEY NEXT YEAR

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—By The Associated Press.—Walter Hoover will not defend the Diamond Sculls at the English Henley next summer but that will have no bearing on his title as world's amateur singles sculling champion. In fact according to officials of the English Boat club, it means that Hoover is giving up the Henley-on-the-Thames trophy to defend his world's title against Paul Costello, Philadelphia, national champion; Hilton Polyea, St. John's N. B. Canadian champion and other prospective challengers.

The Philadelphia Gold Challenge Cup, which Hoover won at Philadelphia last July, represents the world's singles sculling championship since this cup was given to Jack Kelly Vespa, Boat Club, Philadelphia, as an emblem of victory gained at Antwerp, Belgium, in 1920 when Kelly defeated the pick of the world's scullers at the Olympics.

Previously the Diamond Sculls had been recognized as emblematic of the world's title.

Hoover intimated that if he won this summer, he might visit England in 1921.

The world's champion also said that he "would be delighted" to return to England this summer but he is determined to make allowance this year for more attention to his profession as a civil engineer.

BULLSEYES of BASEBALL

THE COSTLIEST PINCH HIT I EVER SAW

BILL CARRIGAN, a dangerous batter, always at his best in a pinch, broke up a batting rally quicker than I have ever seen a player turn such a trick.

Usually some sensational pitching play or effective seldom does the batter, the pinch hitter, come to the assistance of the team in the field.

I have umpired any number of games in which a pinch hitter would break up a rally on one pitched ball. Usually in such cases two were out and the batsman would be retired on the first ball pitched by the relief hurler. I have several times seen double plays made on the first ball delivered by a relief pitcher, retiring the side.

To Bill Carrigan, in the role of pinch batsman, goes the credit of breaking up a promising rally on one hard-hit ball.

Boston was playing in New York. The Boston team was trailing by several runs and didn't seem to have much of a chance when the first half of the ninth opened. Then things began to happen.

The first three men on reached first in safety, filling the bases with no one out. Things began to brighten up for Boston. There seemed to be a chance to win a game that apparently was hopelessly lost.

It was the pitcher's turn to bat. Few pitchers are good hitters. Bill Carrigan was selected to act as pinch hitter and break up the old ball game. That is just what Carrigan did, but with reverse English. Instead of helping Boston, Bill played right into the hands of New York.

How did Bill do such a thing? Listen. Evidently long before he reached the plate, Carrigan had decided to hit the first ball pitched if it was over. The ball was a beauty—right over the heart of the plate.

Carrigan took a healthy cut at the ball as the shortstop made a dash for second to drive the runner back. The pitcher, instead of delaying his delivery so that the shortstop could get back to his position, pitched the ball at what seemed a most inopportune time.

If Carrigan had been able to hit through the spot vacated, all would have been lovely. Instead, he drove a liner a few feet to the shortstop's side of second base.

Had the shortstop been playing properly it would have been a clean hit. Instead, he ran directly into the path of the ball, made an easy catch, stepping on second retired the original

REIMANS WIN CAGE BATTLE, 43-15, FROM HOUSTON THURSDAY

One Sided Contest Goes to Local Quintet; Game Played on Houston Floor

Reiman's speedy basketballers added another victory to their string Thursday night when they handed a defeat to the Houston American Legion basketball team on the Houston floor. When the smoke cleared away from the score board the final count was seen to be 43 to 15 in favor of the La Crosse quint.

The locals led all the way through the struggle, and at no time was the result of the contest in doubt. The game was divided into quarters, the first period being the most interesting, the score at the end being 10 to 6, with the Reimans on the heavy end. At the half-way mark the locals led 18 to 7, and by the end of the third period the Reiman marksmen had added 12 more points, while the home team added but one.

Voss was again leading scorer for his team, with eight field goals and three free throws to his credit, while Gantsch, his running mate, was a close second with eight field goals. Fredrickson counted three times from the floor and Gibson once. By a new arrangement of players Gantsch has been shifted to forward and Fredrickson to center, Till, former center, going to guard.

Lineups: Reimans—Voss and Gantsch, forwards; Fredrickson, center; Till, Gibson and Reuland, guards.

"MY AMERICAN WIFE"
In the action of "My American Wife," starring Gloria Swanson, which is the big feature at the Rivoli, this last half week, Miss Swanson plays the role of a woman who is an officer of the Italian army, portrayed by Antonio Moreno, who wins her. The interlude is colorful, dramatic and thrilling and Miss Swanson is seen in a beautiful costume made especially for this scene at heavy cost. This, however, is only one of the many beautiful costumes worn by the charming star in this love romance of an American girl in Argentina.

"THE FLIRT"

Miss Fawcett became prominent through her portrayal of rural characters. Mr. Pottel is the originator of the "Slippery Slim" comedies. They were secured for the production of Charles Felton Pidgin's story of New England life which is now playing at the Riviera Theatre because they seemed so well fitted for the portrayal of the characters of Maury Skinner and Hiram Maxwell. The strenuous love affair of this duo is one of the amusing incidents of the story.

DEBATERS OF HIGH SCHOOL TO ARGUE KANSAS COURT LAW

Affirmative Team Meets Chippewa Falls Here Friday Night; Negative to Eau Claire

It is expected that many La Crosse citizens will make their appearance at the high school auditorium Friday night to hear the interscholastic debate between the La Crosse high affirmative team and the Chippewa Falls negative team. The question for debate is "The Application of the Essential Features of the Kansas Industrial Court to the Settlement of Railroad Labor Disputes," a question of national interest today.

Public speaking has taken on a more serious aspect in the work of the local school this year than ever before, and it is hoped that the parents and friends of the high school students will take an equal interest in this debate by coming to witness it in order that they may appreciate the wonderful training offered to students in the art of public speaking. The La Crosse high school is very well represented this year in debate. The members of the teams have worked consistently and efficiently with their coaches for a very long time, and there is little doubt but what they will demonstrate their argumentative powers to such an extent that they may win out in the first triangular debate. Two-thirds of the 81 high schools of the state who are participating in debate will be eliminated in this first lap of the race.

Negative at Eau Claire

The negative La Crosse team is also out after the scalps of the Eau Claire debaters Friday night. They left Thursday night for that city where they will uphold the negative of the same question. The following constitute the La Crosse high debate teams: Affirmative: Milton Stoen, Paul Larson, Carlton Johns and Frank Schneider. A. Lester Pierce, coach. Negative team: Lawrence Naegle, Donald Peterson, Kermit Engebretson and Herbert Ristow. Mr. Harry Falconer coaches this team.

The debate will be of especial interest to anyone engaged or interested in the railway labor situation and both teams would appreciate corrections of statements made by them or further arguments on either side of the question.

FLOUR MILL BURNS

BAILEY'S HARBOR, Wis. —The Premier Flour Mill here was totally destroyed by fire which came in the wake of the severe blizzard which has tied up all means of transportation here. Meals was supposed to have been 12 feet in height. Grains were first used in churches in 625.

INDICT JEW FOR SELLING CHURCH WINE TO GENTILES

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — Abraham Solomon, distributor of wine for a Racine Jewish congregation, who was convicted in federal court recently of selling wine to Gentiles, was indicted again on the same charge at the recent session of the grand jury. It was learned Friday.

The indictment charges the sale, not mentioned in the previous indictment, which Solomon admitted while on the witness stand. It accused him of selling 10 gallons of wine to Frank J. Schlessman, Racine.

MAN WANTED FOR MILL CITY THEFT TAKEN ON COAST

Harry Toms, Accused of Mail Robbery, Arrested on Eye of His Wedding

LOS ANGELES, Calif. —Harry C. Toms of Minneapolis, Minn., arrested in Coronado Beach, Calif., on charges of mail robbery, was in Los Angeles Friday on the way to Minneapolis for trial.

Toms, who is 22 years old and said to be the son of wealthy parents, was to have been married here last Saturday night to Miss Louise Kidson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles B. Kidson, but a few hours before the time set for the ceremony, he sent his fiancée a special delivery letter stating he had received a telegram announcing the death of his mother in Minneapolis, that he was starting home and would return here in two weeks.

Miss Kidson, in making that information public, added that her father had objected to the marriage, but that as she was of age he had told her it was "for her to decide." She said she met Toms five years ago when he was a musician in the navy. Investigations are in progress. It is stated, to determine whether there is truth in the charges that Toms attempted to swindle banks in Los Angeles and Minneapolis. One report was that he cashed a draft for $1,800 on a Los Angeles bank, giving the name of his fiancée's father as reference.

HARDING WORLD'S BEST "TIPSTER" SAYS JOURNALIST

President Popular With the Correspondents Speaker Tells Newspaper Class

CHICAGO, Ill.—President Harding was characterized as "one of the world's best 'tipsters'" by Robert Barry, a Washington newspaper correspondent, speaking here Thursday night before the Medill School of Journalism at Northwestern university. He said the president is exceedingly popular with Washington correspondents.

"Often when the president cannot, for diplomatic reasons, give out a story," Mr. Barry said, "he will hand us a tip that we can work up into a first class story. 'Wellows,' he will say, 'let me give you a slant on that.' 'The president is never interviewed,' Mr. Barry stated. 'The only time he is quoted is when he gives out a written statement. At other times it is said, 'the president's attitude is understood to be,' that phrase having its foundation almost invariably in his own spoken words."

SUPERIOR MAN FREED
SUPERIOR, Wis.—A verdict of not guilty was brought in by the jury drawn in the case of the state of Wisconsin against Pat Whalen, charged with shooting George Brane, railroad guard, last August. The jury left the court room at 2:48 p. m. Thursday and returned about 7:30 Thursday night.

The court room was filled by crowds of railroad workers and spectators throughout the case. Attorney George Cooper was counsel for the defendant, and Robert E. Kennedy conducted the prosecution for the state.

NORTHWEST AREA GETTING BACK TO NORMAL CONDITIONS

SUPERIOR, Wis.—Street car and railroad traffic was practically back to normal Thursday, and resumption of regular schedules was promised for Friday. Bus traffic continued to remain inactive on practically all the roads due to difficulties encountered in the clearing of drifts. For the first time since the gale started Wednesday, there were no trains cancelled. Cold weather continued Thursday and the same brand of frigidity is predicted for Friday. The lowest temperature reached Thursday was 17 as compared to 13 of the day before.

TOMAH PUTS BAN ON PUBLIC GATHERINGS IN FIGHT ON "FLU"

Schools, Churches, Theaters, Dance Halls Closed Until Epidemic Subsides

TOMAH, Wis.—Because of the prevalence of influenza in this city, Mayor Nuzum has ordered the closing of all public and parochial schools, churches, dance halls and picture shows. All gatherings of a public nature are barred until the ban is lifted. While the prevailing epidemic is not severe in nature, it is showing itself extremely contagious, entire families being sick one after the other. But one fatality has occurred—the death of Edward, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Giverson.

On Tuesday one hundred and seventy-five high school students were confined to their home because of influenza. The board of education considered the seriousness of the situation and closed the public schools for the remainder of the week and all of next week. It is impossible to secure the immediate services of a physician, all local doctors being engaged night and day.

The surrounding rural districts similar conditions exist and the almost impassable roads of Wednesday are travelled in haste by doctors on their errands of healing. Not since the influenza epidemic of 1917, has there been such a serious condition. The prompt clamping on of the lid by the mayor of Tomah will without doubt prevent many fatalities. A strict enforcement of the ban will be maintained until present conditions are entirely changed and normal ones prevail.

Funeral services were held on February 11 at the home of Mrs. J. Rattle for Mrs. William Bernhagen, aged eighty-three years. Interment was made in the family lot at Tunnel City. Deceased is survived by three children—Mr. Henry Bernhagen of Superior, Wis., Mr. Henry Bernhagen of Los Angeles, Calif., and Mrs. Rattle of Tomah.

MISSING RAILROAD WORKER IS FOUND SEVERELY FROZEN

DENMARK, Wis.—Railroad searching parties reported the finding of Peter Johann, Milwaukee, missing Chicago and Northwestern brakeman at a farm house, three miles from here, about noon Thursday. Johann had wandered off the track. Physicians said Johann was severely frozen and exhausted but would recover. He will remain at the farmhouse for several days.

CHILD EMIGRANTS
SYDNEY, Australia.—Pursuing Great Britain's policy of making Australia a white continent, work has been started on a large scale here to find suitable fosterparents for parentless or unwanted children of England. The baby waifs are being sent here in large numbers and given comfortable homes.

TAX CLOSES MOVIES
WARSAW.—The city of Warsaw is without motion pictures. The city council, having put a tax of one hundred per cent on all tickets, managers of the cinema theaters declared it was impossible to conduct business under such conditions, and closed their houses.

MOTHER'S SACRIFICE
LONDON.—When the brakes of an entrusting automobile failed to work, Sarah Smith held her baby tightly in her arms and turned her back to receive the impact of the blow. The mother was killed, but the child was unhurt.

ASKS DIVORCE

Mrs. Rachael Fish, shown here, asks a divorce from her husband, Smith V. Fish, 46, wealthy Detroit, charging his affections were stolen by a society woman who is 64 and a grandmother.

CRABS DISTURB DINERS
SUVA, Fiji.—Female diners at the most pretentious hotel here jump on chairs and scream when at almost every meal giant crabs scuttle across the dining room floor. The crabs are routed by a Hindu servant, hired for that express purpose. He attacks them with a walking stick and sends them hurtling like golf balls.

JAP SHEETS PERKS UP
TOKYO.—An airplane service has been established by the Asahi, Tokyo daily paper, to carry copies regularly to Osaka 315 miles away.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist, Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.—(Adv.)
